Are your dual controls safe?

The most important tool in your training toolkit in many ways, and crucial in managing the risks of training on road – do you know all you need to know about dual controls?

Arguably the global leader in dual control design and safety, He-Man will discuss the importance of the proper use of dual controls and demonstrate the dangers of buying 'cut and shunt' kit or buying from un reputable or authorised manufacturers or fitters. They'll share case studies where the incorrect fitting of dual controls has created potential serious risk and problems, as well sharing what steps He-Man are taking to improve dual control safety across the world

Andy Appleby

Business Operations Director | HE-MAN Dual Controls Ltd

Data Protection advice for driver trainers

As an Independent ADI, post COVID, your time has never been both more precious and in demand. Managing student and potential student data is part of doing your day-to-day job and building your business. But, do you ever stop to think about how compliantly you deal with student data from a GDPR perspective and the potential problems that errors in this area could cause you? As an industry which prides itself on delivering high professional standards to students, dealing with personal data compliantly is important.

PassMeFast, the UK's leading Intensive Course Specialist and Tacita.io (GDPR compliance experts) are on hand today to break down the requirements and give you some industry specific hints and tips to ensure you can tick the GDPR box for your business.

James Stringer

Chief Operating Officer | Tacita

How the DVSA use your data – now and in the future

Do you have concerns about how your data gets used, or want to learn more about it?

In this session, we'll drill down into how and what data is used and address some of the big questions and concerns about how trainer performance is assessed now, as well as how the regulator may use your data and assess your performance in the future.

Laura Great-Rex

Head of Enforcement Relationship Management

Nigel Robinson

National ADI and Delegated Examiner

How can Mindfulness help my pupils and me?

Experience what Mindfulness is for yourself with San Harper.

San will explain the relationship between Mindfulness and Compassion and share the research into how Mindfulness can improve driver behaviour and the learning journey. There will also be a short mindfulness session and Q&A. San Harper has been an ADI for 18 years and is also a teacher of Mindfulness and Compassion.

San Harper

Mindfulness & Compassion Coach | Guild of Mindful Driver Trainers
